Photo 1:

This is a photo of my family on vacation in Bangkok in August. I'm Luisa and I'm twenty-eight. I'm not from Bangkok—I'm from Mexico. The tall man with short black hair is my husband Felipe. He's a doctor. He's from Peru. It's our wedding anniversary on Saturday. Four years! This is our baby boy, Miguel. He's two.

Here's a photo of my sister Angela. That's her with long brown hair. She's in a hotel in Mexico City. It's her hotel—she isn't on vacation. The people with her in the photo are her friends and their children, and our parents, Aldo and Carla. I'm not in the photo. All the men and women are happy. It's Angela's birthday party in September. She's thirty-two now.

Here are two photographs of my vacation in Italy and France. This is a photo of me and my friend Sandra on a nice beach. She's from South Africa, and we're in France. It's very hot. Look! The sky and the water are blue. We're very happy in the photograph. It's Tuesday. The photographer is a nice French man called Pierre.

This is a different photo. It's Saturday, and I'm in Italy. It isn't hot and it isn't cold. See my hotel, the lake, the mountains, and my green car? It's a nice photo! Sandra isn't in the photo because she's in the city with her friends Marco and Lucia. They're doctors from Rome. They're Italian. Who's the photographer? It's me!
